REGIONAL RESPONSE TO SYRIA CRISIS
TURKEY (INSIDE SYRIA), LEBANON, JORDAN AND IRAQ

Nov 2012
EMERGENCY UPDATE

MEEE Desk would like to thank the support from Finance, Communications & Logistics. Without the great efforts of our team in Turkey, Jordan, Lebanon and Iraq, we could not reach the people of Syria. Without the donors IRUK, IRUSA, IR Canada, IR Swiss, IR Sweden, IR Malaysia, IR Australia, IR Germany, IFDD & private donors, we would not be able to help.

- 300,000 registered IDPs in Ar-Raqqah require assistance
- Extensive humanitarian needs among 225,000 IDPs in Hassakeh
- 2,137 schools used as IDP shelters whilst another 2,199 schools have been damaged
- 59 of 88 public hospitals affected; 177 of 520 ambulances out of service

Current situation inside Syria:

The crisis continues to deepen in Syria with a starkly worrying picture for the humanitarian situation. At least 2.5million people are affected, and the UN estimates that upto 4million people could be affected in the next coming months. Widespread damage and destruction to medical facilities have left large parts of the population without access to health care and many children are denied education as schools become collective shelters for IDPs or have been badly damaged.

The indiscriminate use of explosive weapons, including cluster munitions, in densely populated areas which increases incidents of death, destruction and deep trauma among the civilian population. Ordinary men, women and children continue to be caught up in the violence with limited ability to flee to safer areas. All parties to the conflict must do more to protect civilians and respect international humanitarian law.

Around 360,000 Syrians have crossed the borders into neighbouring countries. UNHCR estimates that the number of Syrian refugees could reach 710,000 people by the end of the year. Inside Syria, an estimated 1.2 million people are now internally displaced, seeking shelter in schools, public buildings, unfinished private accommodation and public even parks. The border region currently hosts an estimated 14,000 Syrians waiting to cross the border into Turkey.

In addition, armed activity, checkpoints, and road-blocks are hampering the provision of humanitarian assistance in the governorate. After Turkish civilians have been killed by Syrian mortar fire in the beginning of October, there have been sporadic confrontations between Turkey and Syria.

Winter in Syria

Cold months in Syria and the region extend from November to February, with night temperatures declining to near freezing levels, resulting in additional humanitarian needs for IDPs, refugees, and other conflict-affected people. Many displaced people are residing in tents that lack adequate insulation and buildings in need of repair to provide sufficient shelter during the winter season

With the onset of the cold season, temperatures are expected to drop considerably and could go below zero degrees Celsius in parts of the country. The number of people in need of assistance is expected to rise. Assistance needs are also likely to deepen, especially among IDPs and children affected by the conflict. Families will struggle to survive without essential clothing, adequate shelter and heating. Assistance to the most vulnerable among the affected population is critical.

Needs in Syria

Health: Access to health care remains a challenge in Syria as both sides target medical facilities and providers. 59% of public hospitals have been damaged or destroyed ². Ambulances are frequently attacked. Limited health care access has produced several medical concerns, the largest of which include access to proper care for the wounded, emergency obstetrical care, safe blood transfusion, paediatric care. Urgent needs of emergency health, primary health care including vaccinations and reproductive health continued.

Medical: WHO raised concerns of expected shortages of medicine as a result of the violence hampering the drug production particularly in Aleppo and Damascus suburbs, where most of the pharmaceutical factories are located.

Food: Ongoing conflict continues to affect food security in Syria, particularly in the country's northeast regions, where the price of staple goods remains high and an increasing number food items are no longer available in markets, according to WFP. In Aleppo, violence has restricted access to markets. Bakeries and food outlets are being shelled as strategic outlets. Access to food remained a key challenge during the reporting period due to soaring prices, no possibilities to earn a living in violence stricken areas and no easy movement. ³

Islamic Relief Response

To respond to the needs and specifically the challenges of winter, IR launched an Emergency Appeal which designed a winterization package of prioritized interventions in Syria, Jordan, Lebanon and Iraq. Winterization interventions will focus on distribution of food items, NFIs; such as blankets, heating devices, newborn kits, and the provision of one-time cash assistance to affected families. In addition, health interventions and assistance will be provided. The consolidated winterization assistance package had a target of just under $20million. To date, and with the support of IRUK, IR USA, IR Canada, IR Australia, IR Malaysia, IR Sweden, IRGermany, IR Switzerland, IFDD, AECID, almost $7.9 million has been successfully raised and mobilised in order to quickly respond to the needs.

Challenges

- Lack of full funding constitutes a significant impediment to tailored and integrated assistance for vulnerable people facing both the impact of violence and harsh winter conditions.
- The shifting and growing nature of the crisis in Syria poses a number of important challenges, which affects our field offices in Jordan, Lebanon and Iraq are working tirelessly to address, either directly or through partnerships with local NGOs to ensure access to IDPs and refugees Key challenges

In Turkey

- Difficulty of access to people trapped in areas of conflict, due to fighting and serious insecurity.
- Unpredictable cuts in road access and communications in certain areas.
- Shifts in areas affected by fighting, which lead to unpredictable movements of IDPs, with people moving to new places, or back to their original locations, in search of more secure shelter.
- Beneficiary numbers remain hard to collect, due to a number of factors, including poor communications, security concerns, and the overall volatile situation within the country.

TURKEY (INSIDE SYRIA)⁴

On Wednesday, the 3rd of October, five Turkish civilians, a woman and four children from the same family, were killed and at least eight were wounded when Syrian shells landed in Akcakale in southern of Turkey. Turkey fired on Syrian government targets in response to the shelling. Several Syrian troops were killed as a result of Turkish shelling inside the Syrian border town of Tal Abyad. Meanwhile on Thursday, Turkey's parliament authorized military operations against targets in neighboring Syria.

Under Article 4 of its charter, NATO members convened and said it stood by member nation Turkey and urged Syria to put an end to "flagrant violations of international law". Turkey also asked the UN Security Council to take the "necessary action" to stop Syrian "aggression". During the next week, the Turkish military has renewed firing at targets inside Syria after different Syrian shells were landed in Turkey.

Due to the conflict inside Syria since April 2011, more than 150,000 Syrians have crossed the Turkish border. As of today, there are 107,769 refugees in 13 tent cities according to the Disaster and Emergency Management Presidency (AFAD) ⁵

These refugees have been provided with sheltering, food, health, security, social activities, education, worship, communication, banking and other services under coordination of AFAD. The camps include schools, mosques, centers of commercial, police and medical, press briefing agency, play field for children, units for watching TV, reservoir, purification center, transformers and generators. Three times a day, the supply of hot meals for Syrian refugees in tent cities is still ongoing.

According to authorities, there is no change in Turkey's "open border policy" despite there being more than 100,000 persons in Turkey. Syrians seeking asylum are admitted and referred to newly opened camps unless they have immediate family in other camps. New camps have reached almost 50% capacity. ⁶

Many of the wounded and injured in the near areas are brought to Turkish hospitals where they are treated and discharged. Once discharged, few have the proper resources to secure shelters or even the proper post-operative care. As a result, many are in desperate need of follow-up care.

Islamic Relief's Action:

- Islamic Relief Turkey began its work in Syria back in April 2012, and set a base in Hatay, Turkey bordering a number of Syrian cities.

- On the ground, Islamic Relief Mission participated in equipping Atma Refugees camp in Edlib suburbs by distributing non food items, including:

Blanket - single	3,000
Blanket - double	2,000
Mattresses	2,000

- During this month, IR sent a number of equipped ambulances for Syrian hospitals to help in improving health care for injured, disabled and patients inside Syria. The ambulances came in an aid convoy donated by Islamic Relief Sweden and entered Syria on Friday 12 October 2012.

oThe convoy included 5 ambulances equipped and loaded with medical supplies such as 4 electric wheelchairs for disabled, 6 normal wheelchairs, 20 walkers, 125 crutches, special lift for disabled people, clothes and medical supplies.

o With coordination, IR identified field hospitals in Aleppo, Idlib and Hama as the areas that needed most support.

- On the other hand, Islamic Relief Mission in Turkey participated in the two charity events organized by Islamic Relief Switzerland.

o The two events took place on 6th and 7th of October with participation from different individuals in two different cities in Switzerland.

o The conference by Islamic Relief Mission focused on three main points; suffering of Syrian refugees at the border area between Turkey and Syria, Islamic Relief interventions and obstacles facing Islamic Relief team.

- IR Mission signed 5 contracts with different Turkish suppliers to provide medical supplies for Syrian field hospitals with a total amount of 208,000 USD.

o The delivery will start on the first week of November and then the coordination will launch to pass the medical aids into Syrian field hospitals.

LEBANON⁷

MAP OF LEBANON - RED SPOTS SHOWING THE CONCENTRATION OF REGISTERED SYRIAN REFUGEES – SOURCE: UNHCR OCTOBER 29TH 2012

Lebanon is now the third country to register or assist more than 100,000 refugees. The majority of refugees originate from Homs, Damascus and Rural Damascus. Of this number, 70,440 are registered, with an estimated 30,000 people having been in contact with UNHCR to be registered. From other resources the real number of Syrian refugees in Lebanon reached at least 200,000. On the 19th October, a car bomb attack in a neighbourhood of Beirut and the subsequent violence that erupted in some parts of the country caused delays to assistance to activities across the country. Some activities were able to fully resume on 23rd October.

Continued shelling from Syrian territory into Lebanon is affecting refugees and host communities in the border areas. Humanitarian agencies are concerned about the risk faced by these populations. The Government of Lebanon recently announced that it will waive the fee for renewal of residency permits for Syrian refugees which will assist vulnerable Syrians who have limited means to meet the costs of such renewals. Over the past week, some 16,000 refugees received food, blankets, mattresses, hygiene kits and baby kits from sources including IR, UNHCR, the World Food Programme, the Danish Refugee Council, World Vision, the UN Population Fund, UNICEF and Caritas.

A report issued by the International Rescue Committee (IRC) highlighted the risk of sexual and gender-based violence among Syrian refugee women in Lebanon. UN agencies and INGOs have developed a response plan to identify survivors of sexual violence and ensure referrals to appropriate medical services. Humanitarian agencies are also concerned over reports of unaccompanied children. Distribution of winter items has started in the Beka'a Valley, with humanitarian partners targeting 15,000 refugees.

Most displaced Syrians in Lebanon currently reside with host families or rent apartments. UNHCR has established multiple registration sites—in the cities of Tripoli, Akar, Beirut, and Saida—to reach these groups. The majority of families previously residing in schools have moved to apartments and other alternative shelters, allowing school to commence.

The Ministry of Education and Higher Education continues to ensure enrolment of refugee children into Lebanese schools.

⁷ HoM – Mr Mohamed El Waei

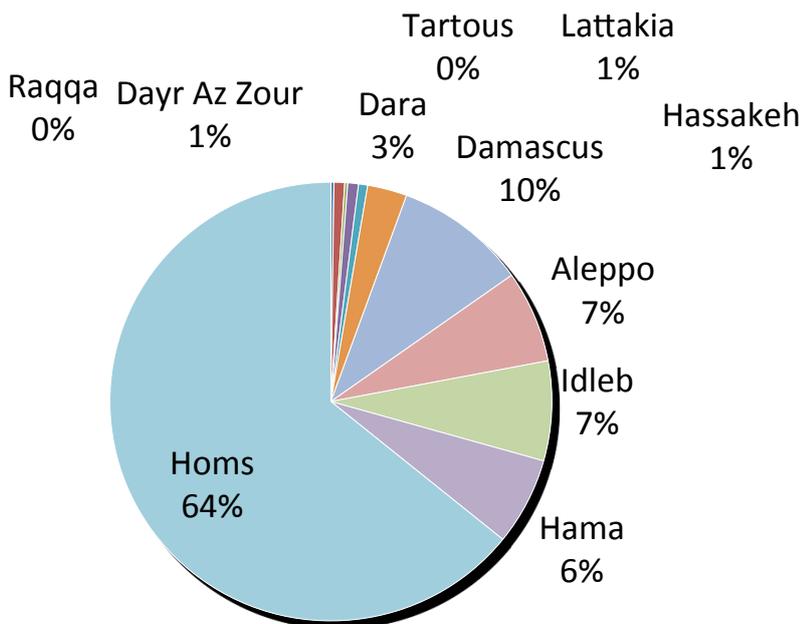

Needs assessments have highlighted the need for tuition fees, school uniforms and supplies. An increasingly large number of refugees are approaching agencies for psycho-social assistance. The majority of cases are people who are suffering from depression and anxiety, effects of the trauma caused by conflict and displacement. Primary health care is provided in the Bika'a Valley through medical mobile units and primary health care centres for those in the north.

The main challenges related to Syrian refugees in the current period are mainly outlined as:
1- Shelter needs (As the government of Lebanon does not have the facility of building camps/ providing shelters for Syrian refugees especially under the very expensive rent rates).
2- Providing winterization items (especially in Bikaa area and North of Lebanon)
3- Education

Refugees often reside in economically and socially depressed areas and there is a lack of available rental accommodation.

Islamic Relief's Future Plans:

Islamic Relief prioritizes displaced Syrian needs as per the current humanitarian situation in Lebanon.

After screening Syrian people in several areas in Lebanon, IRL found that winterization and shelters issues are going to be most urgent challenge facing Syrian people (especially for those who are living in Al Bikaa area), followed by the medication needs, the education needs and the psychological support critical for Syrian kids as well.

In addition, an advocacy project on Universal Children's Day November 20th for Syrian children where children from all across the world will send in letters/drawings (all English) and a small toy to be distributed to Syrian children.

Islamic Relief Lebanon through the winterization and shelters project is planning to establish shelter units in different areas; Bekaa Casa, or Northern Casa, or Southern Casa and Mount Lebanon, and to provide families with heavy winter clothes in addition to heaters or facilities which will help keep bodies & hearts warm and secure.

For medication needs, IRL is willing to distribute medicine and medical supplies to the areas of Bekaa Casa, Northern Casa, Southern Casa, Mount Lebanon and Palestinian camps with Syrian families to increase access and quality to surgical operations. With Islamic Relief funds, IR office in Lebanon through local communities would like to reach those in need in the targeted areas, in order to:

- Provide medicine and medical supplies for the Syrian population in Bekaa, northern, southern casa and Mount Lebanon.
- Provide payment for surgical operations for the Syrian refugees in the targeted areas.
- Provide payment for X-rays and medical examinations.
- Enable access Echo and Ultra Sound tests.
- Enable access provide laboratory tests.
- Enable access to deliveries and caesareans.

JORDAN¹⁰

More than 105,000 Syrian refugees have registered and/ or received assistance in Jordan. More than 60,089 Syrian refugees have been registered in urban areas and another 32,160 Syrians have received registration appointments. Majority of those who fled Syria and seek safety in the land of Jordan are from Homs, Dara, Hama and Damascus. About 40% of them are staying in Irbid and Ramtha, Jordan. Others will be found in Mafrq, Zarqa, Maan, Jerash, Amman and even in South Jordan such as Tafileh, Karak and Aqaba. Numbers of Syrians are going back and forth to Syria to check on their possessions and some come back to Jordan with their families.

Coordination meetings are still being held every week by active players/actors in the field of emergency assistance for Syrian refugees in Jordan with UNHCR leading the pact. The crisis still ongoing, its end is not expected any time soon. Thus, more help and assistance will be needed. Funds are badly needed as the numbers of the Syrian refugees escalate every day.

To reiterate, there are two types of entry being used by the Syrians who come to Jordan; there are those who cross the border illegally, and another who come legally.

As probably the same case with other neighbouring countries who are hosting the Syrian refugees (Lebanon and Turkey), most of those who come to the country illegally have little to none in terms of money.

Foreign Minister Nasser Judeh has said more than 200,000 Syrian refugees have crossed into Jordan since the uprising erupted in mid-March last year.

Syrian refugees arriving in Jordan through illegal border crossing are brought to Za’atri by the Jordanian Armed Forces and IOM. UNHCR is aware that a significant number of people have left and are leaving the camp through bailing out procedure, voluntary return to Syria or by their own means. UNHCR has recently witnessed an increase in the number of Syrians approaching its main office in Amman and help-desks in Irbid, Mafrq, Ma’an and Zarqa. UNHCR is working closely with the Jordanian authorities in order to capture better the movements in and out the camp and is carrying out a verification exercise to obtain a more accurate figure on the population living in the Za’atri.

Islamic Relief's activities in Jordan:

- With the Syrian operation, Islamic Relief's financial and human resources are increasing to meet the needs, Currently, there are three projects running amounting to around EUR 1.6 million

IRAQ¹²

There are currently over 40,000 Syrian refugees registered or awaiting registration in Iraq, the majority in the Kurdistan Region and more than 7,000 in Al-Qa'im ¹³, Anbar governorate. To accommodate the growing number of refugees, three camps were established: one in Domiz, and two in Al-Qa'im, which altogether host around 20,000 refugees. The remaining refugees are living in the community, with local families, or in public buildings pending the establishment of new camps. Refugees originate mainly from Hassaka, Qameshly, as well as Kurds who were living in Damascus, Reef Damascus and Aleppo. The refugees reported severe power cuts and closure of food stores resulting in the lack of essential livelihood resources. ¹⁴

- Winterization of tents;
- Provision of heaters and kerosene;
- Provision of thermal blankets and quilts ;
- Replacement of tented schools for refugee children by prefabricated classrooms with electrical heating systems

Winterization activities in Iraq prioritize refugees staying in camps, but also plans for support to refugees hosted among the local community as well as to the host families themselves.

It is expected that the number of refugees will reach 60,000 by the end of the year, requiring the establishment of new camps in Domiz and in Al-Obaibi (Anbar), for new arrivals. Given the harsh winter conditions and the fact a growing proportion of refugees is in camps, the winter plan developed by UN agencies and its partners is made up of the following components:

ISLAMIC RELIEF KEY MESSAGES

Islamic Relief Worldwide and its partners remain extremely concerned for nearly 3 million people who are affected by the conflict and need help.

The fighting must stop before more lives are needlessly lost.

While our humanitarian operation is helping large numbers of people in many areas, it is hindered by lack of funding as well as insecurity and violence. We need more resources to be able to help more people.

Humanitarian work is done on the basis of impartiality and neutrality. The only aim is to save lives and protect the vulnerable. These principles must be respected and it is vital that humanitarian aid remains free of any political agenda.
